From the Pastor's Desk

Dear Parishioners and Friends of our Parish,

"Stir up, O Lord, Your mighty power and come to save us by the power of Your Hand." - Liturgy of Advent

With this celebration of the Eucharist we begin the Third Week of Holy Advent. Today there is a distinct shift in the Liturgy. The first part of Advent continued the theme of the "end times" that predominated the Liturgy during the final weeks of Ordinary Time. Beginning today until the day before Christmas we now turn our attention to the wondrous event of the Incarnation soon to take place in Bethlehem's Crib. Also, today, the Church asks that rose colored vestments replace the more somber violet of Advent. Twice in one year does this spirit of joy and anticipation penetrate through Seasons of anticipation and penance. The first is today, the Third Sunday in Advent, also known as Gaudete Sunday, or Rejoice Sunday and the second is the Fourth Sunday in Great Lent also known as Laetare Sunday again Rejoice Sunday. Today we are made joyful that Christmas is near and so is our salvation. During Great Lent the saving mysteries by which we are redeemed are so close. Today is the mid-point of Advent and at a time when fasting and penance was a part of the Advent Season, today was a kind of reprieve. Certain foods and drink were allowed to be enjoyed today, with moderation, of course. It was Christmas Day anticipated! Today, the Sunday Mass Readings prepare us for the coming of the Just One.

What does true repentance look like? This is the topic of the Gospel reading for the Third Sunday in Advent. Unlike the Gospel of Mark, the Gospels of Matthew and Luke tie repentance for sins to how one lives. Luck is clear: true repentance will show itself in a righteous life. Unlike Matthew, Luke takes pains to give examples of what such a life looks like. It involves sharing one's resources rather than trying unjustly to accumulate more and more. Thus, in Luke's Gospel, John the Baptist tells people to share clothes and food with those who are in need. He advises tax collectors not to cheat people by collecting more than they should. The soldiers he enjoins not to use their power for extortion and to "be satisfied with your wages, they should not seek to augment their salaries by force. Significantly, these sayings of John are responses to questions. Only in Luke's Gospel do those who come to be baptized by John ask him specifically what they should do. Different groups do so three times. These groups serve as models of seeking for ways in which repentance is made concrete in one's daily life and activities. The Greek word for repentance is "Metanoia." In the dialogue between John the Baptist and those who come to him to be baptized, Luke portrays repentance as an internal disposition that is revealed in how people use their possessions or desire for increased wealth when there are others who are needy in their midst.

Years ago, Father Joe Champlin, a priest of the Diocese of Syracuse, shared at a workshop for clergy a wedding homily that offered three words of advice to the couple: Share. Care. Be Fair. Perhaps Father got this message from John the Baptist. John gives pretty much this same advice to the people who come to him. He calls the crowds to share their clothing. He tells the tax collectors to care about those whom they were known to overtax. And he urges soldiers not to abuse their power, but to act fairly toward an oppressed people who had little recourse against Roman military might. These three words of good advice can speak today to our own lives, as individuals and as a nation. They offer a profile of reform, of living in a way that looks beyond oneself to others. Luke's John is very much in line with Luke's call to care for the poor and the lowly, the oppressed and the downtrodden. John knew who he was and who he was not. He preached that "one mightier than I is coming...

(who) will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and with fire." John expected someone who would bring judgment and separate the wheat from the chaff, tossing the worthless into the fire. But the one who came as first of a "Savior", as Luke emphasizes, and as we will hear on Christmas Night, Jesus was even better news than John the Baptist expected. Which is wonderful news for us!

We pray to God today to give us the gift of joy, one of the gifts of the Holy Spirit and of this holy Advent Season, so that we might "rejoice in the Lord always", knowing that "the Lord is near" and will set divine peace as a guard over our hearts and minds.

Today is also a great day of joy for me personally. On December the 8th 1984 I professed my Solemn Vows (Final Vows) as a Trinitarian Religious. That was such a beautiful day for me, with my Mother and members of my family in attendance. It was at that time I began to reconcile with my Father and my Brother. Certainly the grace of that day spilled over for many years to follow. Today at the 9:30 AM Mass at St. James I will renew my Profession with our newly-elected Provincial, Father Edward Owens, O.S.S.T., and then an informal reception will follow in Trinity Hall. Today we celebrate not me but the gift Religious Life has been to the Church for nearly two thousand years. I wanted this celebration to emphasize the Trinitarian aspect of my vocation. In 2012 Father Ken and myself will celebrate twenty-five years of Priesthood (if the world does not end according to the latest movie!) So all are invited to share with me the joy of the day. It is an excellent preparation of the coming Feast of the Incarnation.

This Wednesday, December the 16th through Thursday, December the 24th we will pray our Solemn Novena to the Divine Infant Jesus after the morning Masses. The Novena will consist of a brief prayer of petition to the Infant imploring His help in all our needs and wants. The format of the Novena is very simple because of the hectic pace of these days. So if you cannot come to daily Mass, the novena is printed in the bulletin for two weeks so that you will be able to unite your mind and heart with the Parish as we prepare for the coming of Jesus.

Just a reminder: this Thursday, December the 17th, is the Feast of our Holy Founder, St. John DeMatha and also the day chosen for our annual Advent Penance Service at 7PM at Incarnation Church. Our Founder made freedom the centerpiece of his Religious Order and that means freedom from all that keeps us from becoming the people God has chosen us to be. Try to receive the Sacrament of Penance during these holy days of Advent so that our hearts will be prepared to welcome the King of kings and the Lord of lords. The Service will not be lengthy so there will be ample time to receive the Sacrament. A renewed heart and spirit is the best gift we can give ourselves this Christmas Season.

Finally we welcome Father Edward Owens, O.S.S.T., our Provincial, to our Parish Family during this holy time of the year as well as our other Trinitarian Brothers and visiting clergy.

May this final full week of Advent find our hearts preparing for the coming of our gracious Savior, Jesus Christ.

In the Love of Jesus and Our Lady,
Father Daniel, O.S.S.T.

WHY I LOVE ISJ SCHOOL

When we drop our children off at ISJ School each day, we know that they are getting a quality education in the basics of reading, writing, and math, basics that will serve our children well into the future. We are impressed that, for such a small school, ISJ has a top-notch technology program that is fully integrated into each subject and is used by all students from PK to grade 8. It seems like some aspect of the technology, be it hardware or software, is updated annually. We are also amazed at the science lab and the instruction that goes along with it; we certainly weren't learning this level of science when we were in elementary school. The faculty and staff are truly dedicated to the education and well-being of the students in their care. We see this everyday, not only in the classroom, but also in the after school activities like choir, bowling and the boys' sports club. Having the IHM sisters serving the school as both teachers and administrators is priceless. Incarnation-St. James is a great school, and we feel fortunate to have chosen it for our children.
